

CURRACH SINGLE MALT IRISH WHISKEY - ATLANTIC WAKAME SEAWEED CASK

Origin Spirits

Origin Spirits is an Irish based spirits producer from Kilsheelan, Tipperary, Ireland. Renowned for its Avant Garde approach to producing spirits, Origin Spirits has created a new avenue for Irish Whiskey fanatics that binds them to history as they drink.

Much like the boats in which it takes its namesake, this whiskey is an adventure into unknown territories. Currach Single Malt Irish Whiskey is a true innovation in the whiskey world, the second expression is created using Irish Atlantic Wakame seaweed. The same process is used to create both expressions, the only variance being the seaweed used to char the individual casks.

Using wakame seaweed as kindling, smoke from the fire seasons ex-bourbon casks for the 3-4-year whiskey to finish. The bottled whiskey takes on not only the pleasing maritime scent of the Atlantic but adds a noticeable umami finish. The flavors from both products are starkly different yet share the same single malt DNA while having distinctive sweet, savory and maritime qualities of their own.

Wakame, a green seaweed varietal is rare, seasonal, and considered to be the king of seaweed. It grows in the extreme lower shore on wave-battered rocks and in rock pools in the winter months and is harvested in mid-spring at its nutritional prime.
